

Developmental Trauma: Theory, Research and Practice

We'd rather do something that requires mental effort than do nothing at all

Although much has been made of the aversiveness of effort, the study suggests that being bored is at least as unpleasant " if not more so.

Reference

Handbook of Writing Research, First Edition

Devin's Life on the Spectrum : The True Story of a Boy Who Changed Lives