

Our Commitment to Anti-Discrimination

DePaul University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, ethnicity, religion, sex, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation, national origin, age, marital status, pregnancy, parental status, family relationship status, physical or mental disability, military status, genetic information or other status protected by local, state or federal law in matters of admissions, employment, housing, scholarships, loans, athletics and other school-administered programs. Individuals who believe they have been subjected to discrimination, harassment or retaliation are encouraged to report what happened.

DePaul also complies with federal and state laws that prohibit discrimination, including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and its implementing regulations. To that end, DePaul prohibits discrimination based on sex (including sexual harassment) in the university's educational programs and activities, including in matters of employment and admissions. Any alleged violations of this policy or questions specific to sex discrimination (including sexual misconduct and sexual harassment) should be directed to DePaul's Title IX Coordinator/Director of Gender Equity. Visit DePaul's Title IX website for contact information and to learn about more options for reporting allegations of sex or gender-based discrimination, harassment or violence.

Reference

Self and Story in Early Childhood: Children's Developing Minds Revealed by Parent-led Research

Childbirth Education: Practice, Research and Theory