If you have a concern about particular URLs or other information contained in search results, you may report these to Microsoft Bing. Reporting a concern will not necessarily result in removal of a URL from search results. Bing limits removal of search results to a narrow set of circumstances and conditions to avoid restricting Bing users' access to relevant information.

If you see factual errors or other issues on Bing, you can alert us through the Feedback link on the bottom of the page. See below for other ways to contact us and get more info about Bing.
